The purpose of a high-school year book lies in re-creating happenings, personalities, events, and routines. Its intent is to reflect the triumphs and tribulations, joys and sorrows of a teenager in a teenager's world. Its goal is to present this as through the eyes of the students as they have lived the past year. Your Ell Ess Pe Staff offers this book as a remembrance—re-creating, reflecting, presenting the year 1956 for the students of L-P.

Looking Up Through '56

You, a student at La Salle-Peru Township High School, ascend the grade to the year 1956. Freshman, sophomore, junior, senior—this is your year, your class, and your school. This is you, one of 1200 students at L-P on your way up. Look up, Youth, look to tomorrow, for this year is a good year and this school is a good school . . . look up through '56.

BILL FITCH, senior class president
MARY ROSS, junior class president

The tower clock, always in pre-eminence, shows 9:00, and first period has begun. The day is September 1, 1955. The first day of school mingles joy and sorrow in your life. The familiar halls filled with well-known sounds and sights, the renewal of old friendships and the making of new ones—these are happy times. There are, of course, the books ... yes, the books must be handed out, and just for a moment—only a moment—the windows look a little bit like they are barred. You have a new year to look forward to ... you are back in school.

Not everything is the same, though; things are looking up at L-P. The new auditorium seats are welcomed and comfortable—not so the accompanying lectures on their care and handling at the first fall assemblies. Many seniors try out the new aids in preparation for college through the first senior orientation course, while the newfledged freshmen do their best to explore all the possibilities L-P offers. Damp, bedraggled hair; an arm load of books; tardiness to class ... such fun being a freshie! School spirit rises, and little wonder. Who wouldn't support a team on its way to the state tournament?

Denise Hartman

Margie Andrews

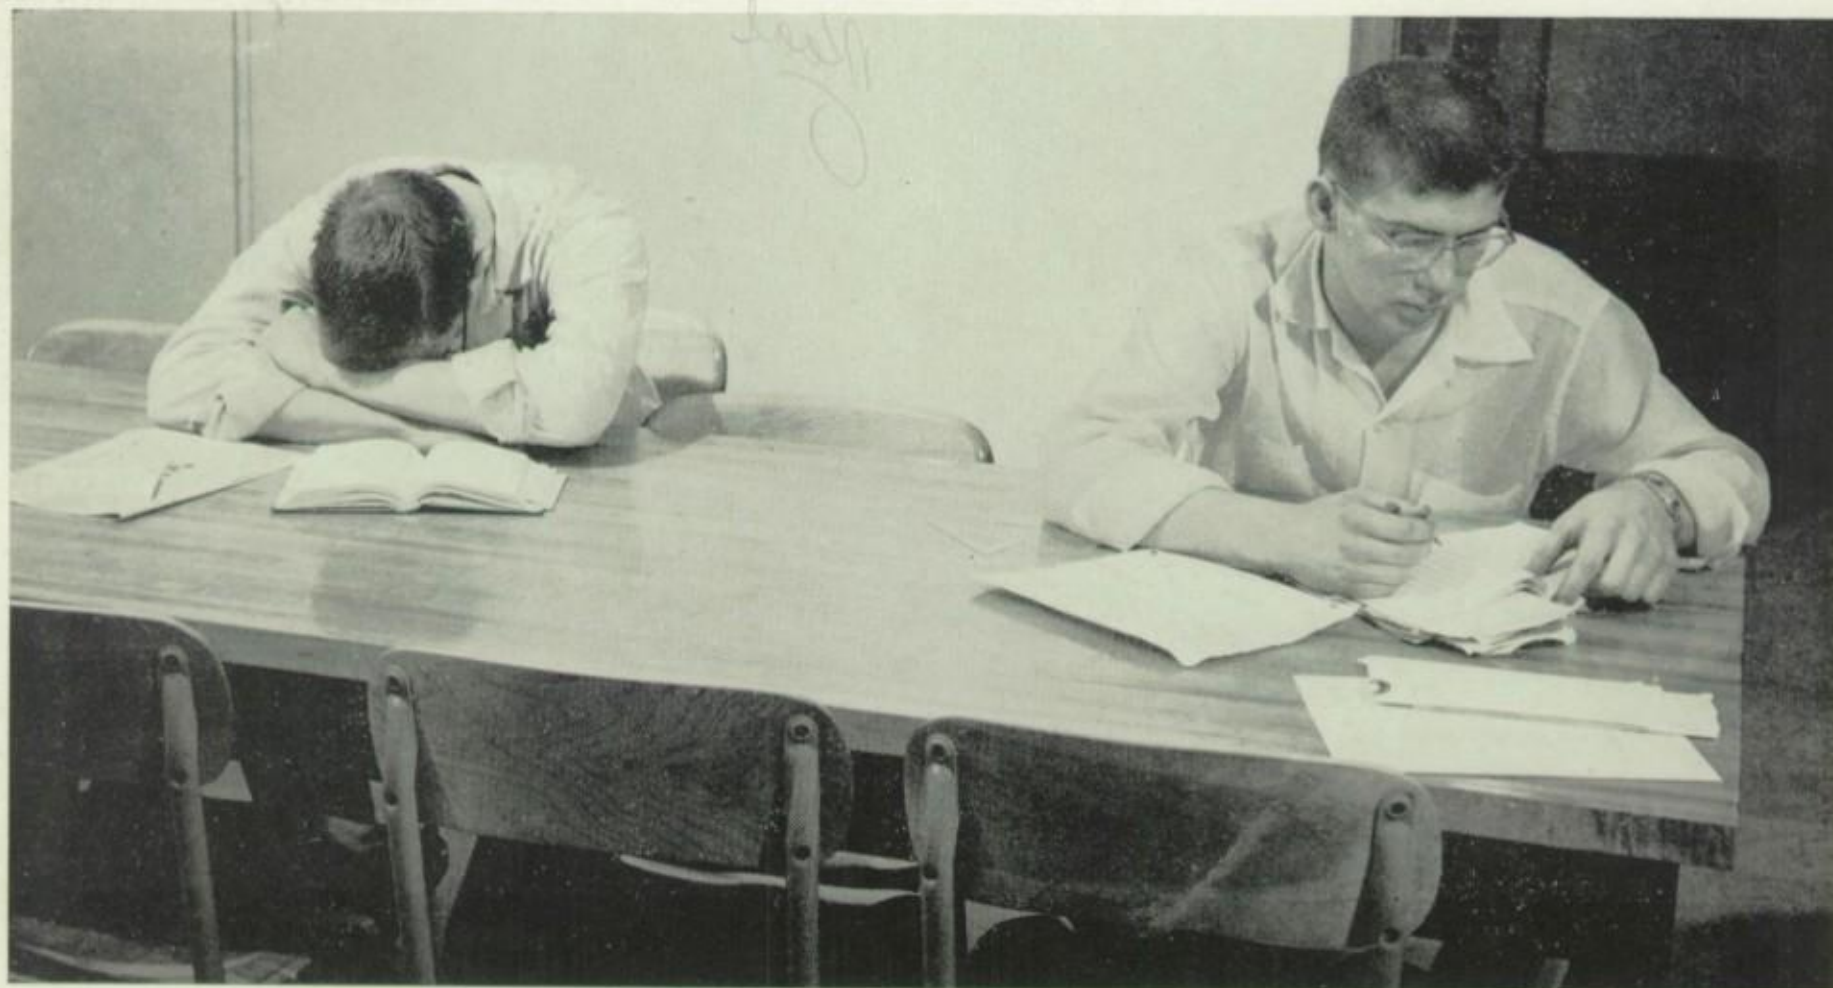

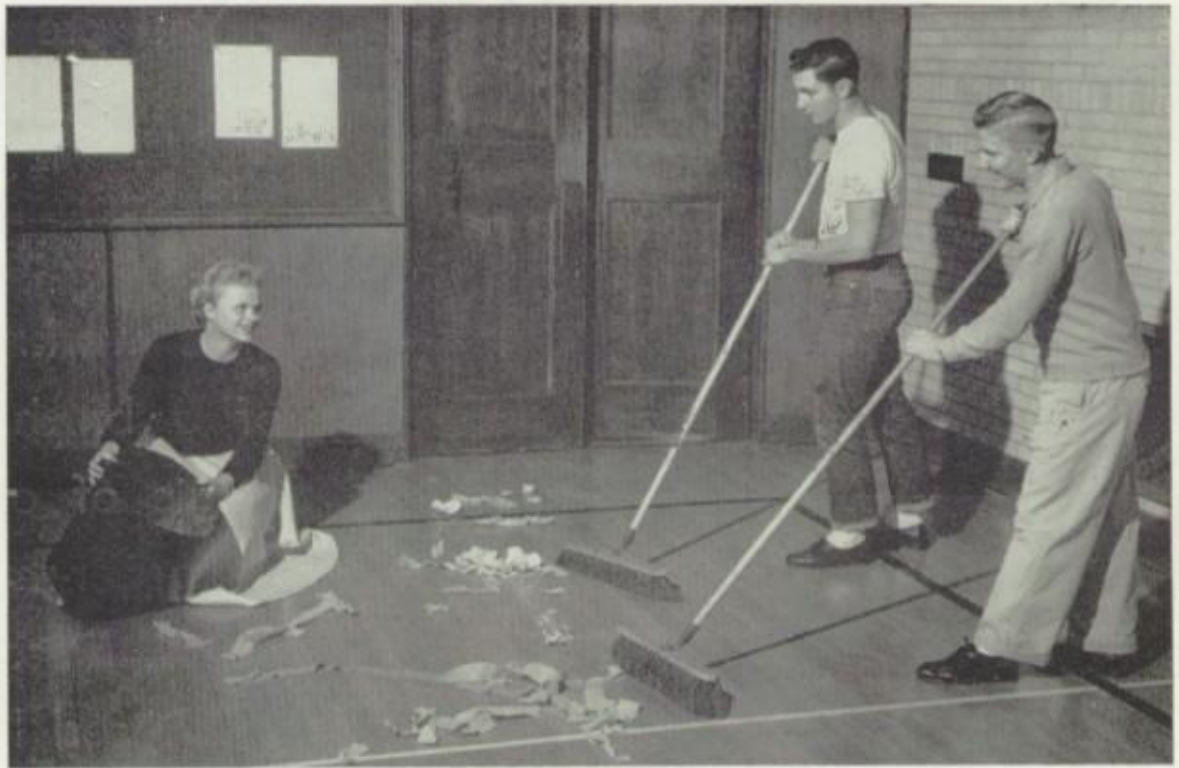

Mr. William O'Brian's third-period public speaking class.

Through the year you learn to look to your classes and teachers for knowledge and guidance and to study halls for suppressed silence and occasional boredom. You learn, also, to look to your school to provide entertainment and group activities. Extracurricular activities, teaching leadership and citizenship, become as much a part of you as

David Mazur

Don Ketter

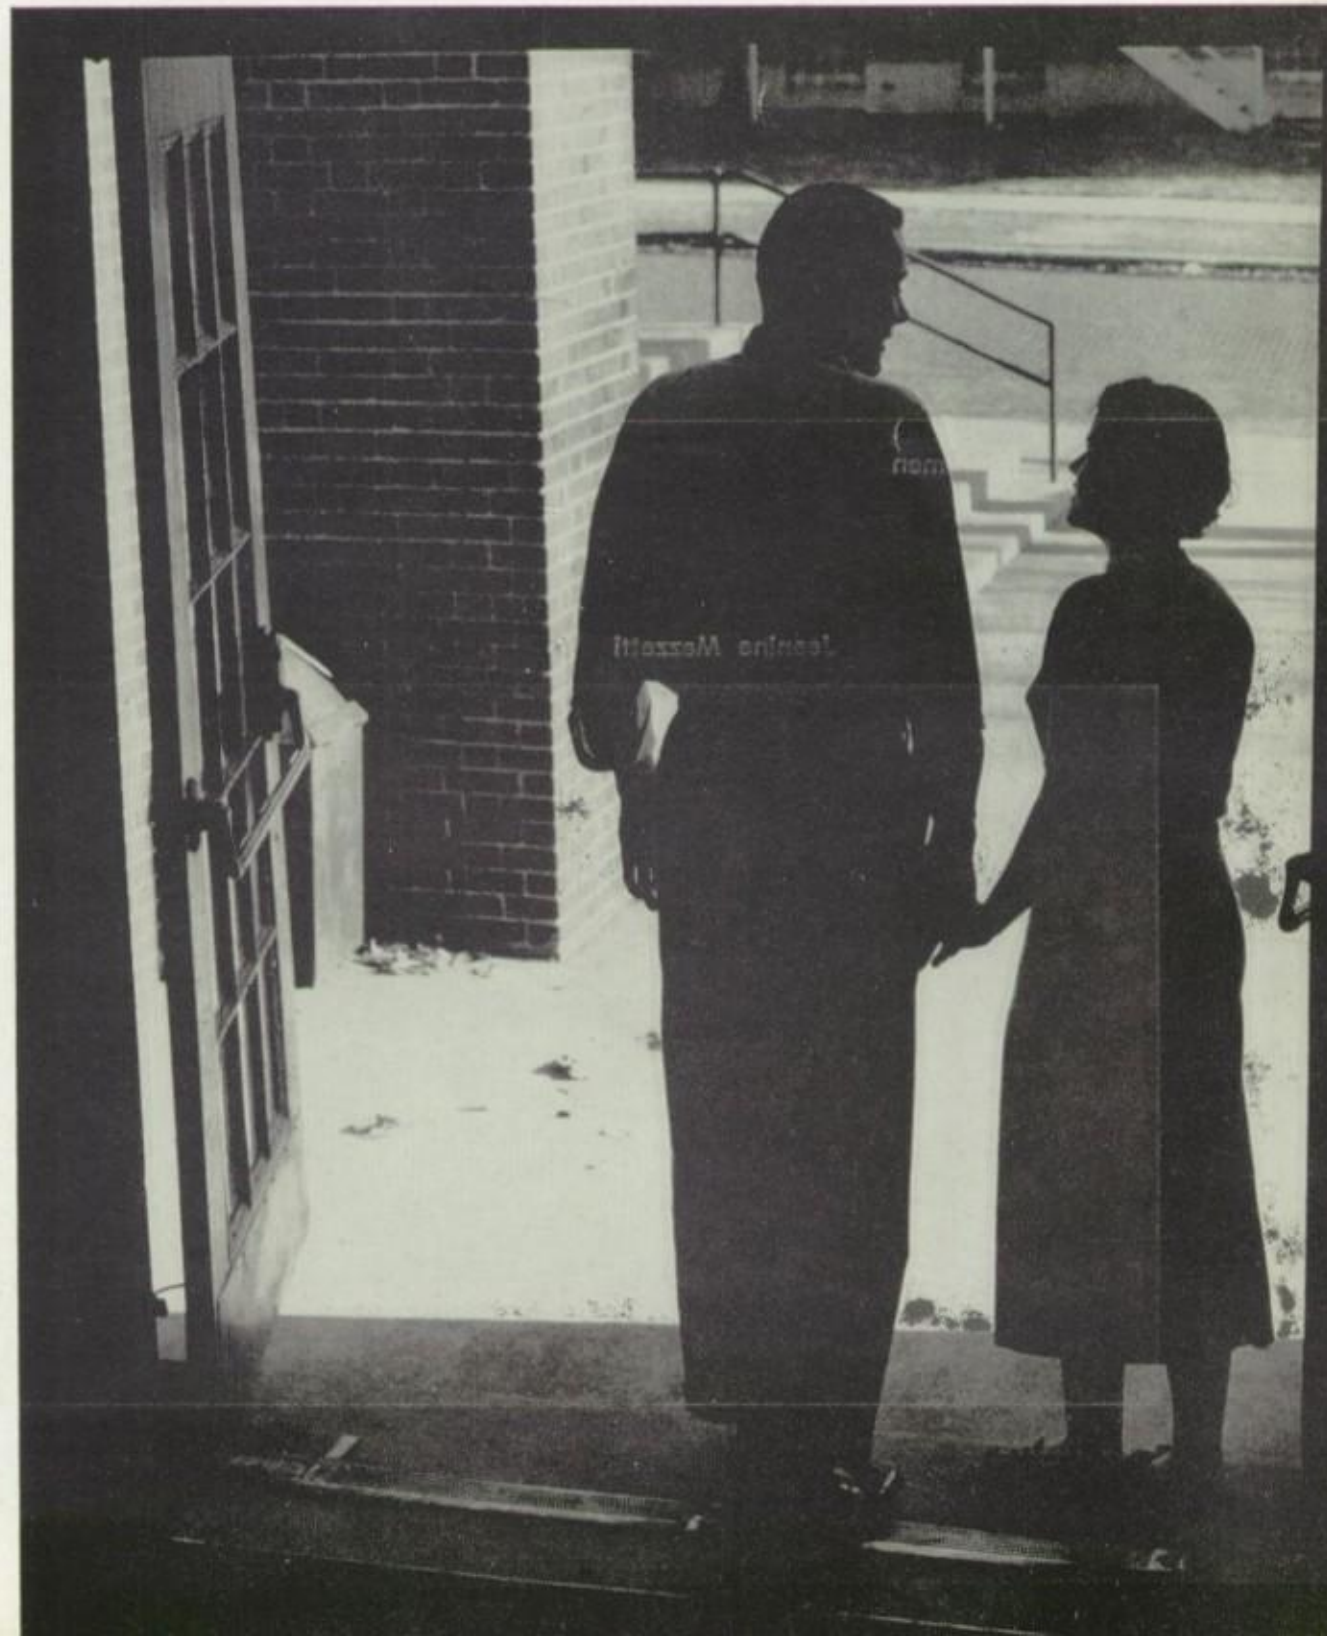

Janice Carter, Bruce Ghilino, Jim Krultz

the classes, and you, in turn, seem to become a part of them . . . even if it means being on the clean-up committee after the party. Your study life, your social life, even your love life all seem to center about L-P.

Bob Mueller, Charlene Flannery

You prepare for your future through L-P. Learning to feel out your talents and abilities, you turn to the course of study which will mold a basis for your life's work. Maybe you learn the feel of a brush, the touch of canvas, the magic of oils or water colors, of clay or paper-mache, of charcoal or of a pencil. Possibly your talent lies in a well-typed letter, a thorough knowledge of shorthand, and a smile to please a future employer. Your art may be that

This is your school. These are your activities, your sports, your teachers, and your classmates. In short, this is you, and these are your memories Remember—do you remember—the home coming parade . . . honking, yelling, singing—the sweetness of the victory the next night, and the fun you had at the dance . . . and then there was that best report card—high scholarship legion, or maybe honor roll. And do you remember—as if you could forget—the day you flunked the big math exam, or was it history . . . the night of the tournament defeat, and the solemnity and silence of the buses . . . going home. Yes—this is your school; this is you; these are your memories, and this is your 1956 Ell Ess Pe.

Activities

Through '56

Your high school record—the classes attended, the activities shared, the friendships made—represents you in the eyes of the world in the years to come. Activities play as large a part as classes in preparing you for your future. Their contribution to your record is invaluable. Look to your record, Student—look to what you have left behind you, and look, too, to see what of L-P and the year 1956 you have to take with you.

Mr. Sam McCartney's seventh period American government students take complete charge of all elections at L-P. The work starts with passing out petitions for office to the students who wish to be on the primary ballot. Marion Dane and Alberta Trost explain the petitions to students of Mr. Brolley's freshman home room.

The primary and final elections are conducted in the same manner as public elections. American government students, Leland Bottomley, Jim Entwistle, Mary Morandi, Allen Swanson, and Carolyn Traeger distribute ballots to freshmen students at the freshman election.

After the election, the American government students tally the ballots. Louis Borio, Jackie Lushina, Diana Forster, and Earl Way sort and prepare ballots for counting. Denise Hartman, Joanne Gostomski, and James Gregorich check the count while Bob Udvance and Tom Shea call off each ballot as it is marked. Three persons total each group to insure accuracy.

At last the big moment has arrived, and Mr. McCartney looks on while Nancy Hall and Bill Fitch announce the results of the election.

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

students learn by leading

In accordance with the material studied through the year, the American government students make a trip in the spring to the county seat in Ottawa. Returning from the trip, Jackie Lushina, Norma Thelen, Helene Gunia, Yvonne Grant, Janice Dresbach, Dick Devecchio, Bob Parnisari, and David Bloomstrand declare it a success. Second semester students not pictured are: Judie Ellerbrock, Bob Waclaw, and Gladys Balconi.

potlucks

The members of The Band Parents Association enjoy a potluck held in the school cafeteria.

Many times during the year, the L-P Band is called upon to participate in affairs of the community. In the St. Patrick's Day Parade, the entire band marches with bands of other schools in the Tri-Cities.

Versatile L-P Band . . . inspires school spirit

The pep-band is composed of top-chair players of each section of the band. This group performs at the eleven home basketball games, accompanying the student body in cheers and the L-P loyalty song.

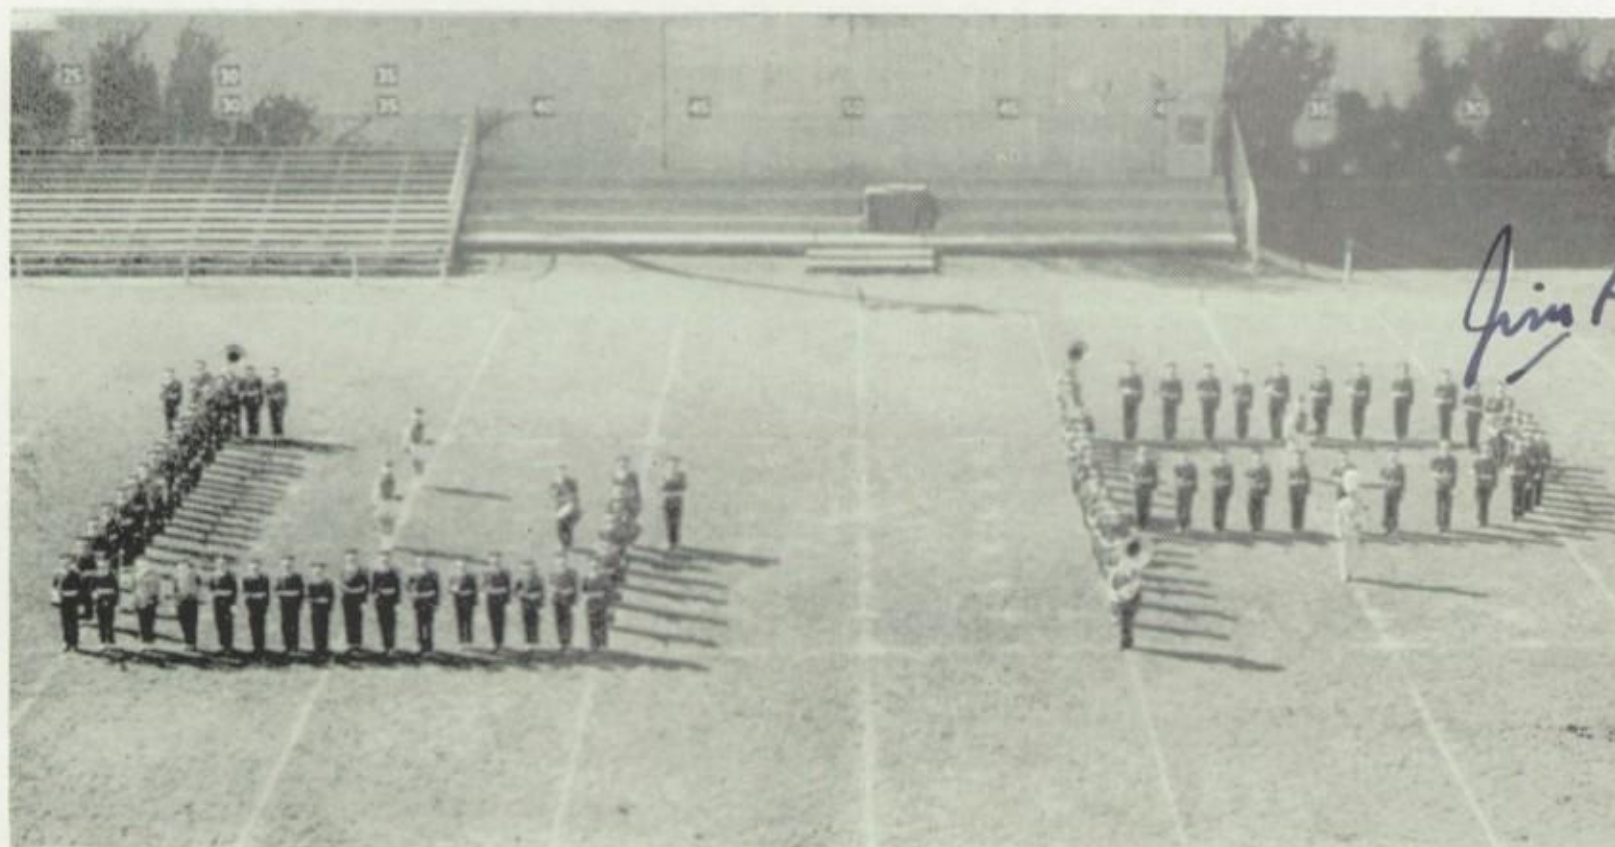

On March 24, the Woodwind Trio: Betty Urbanowski, Barbara Liesse, and Ardith Lamps received superior rating in the district contest at Earlville. On May 4 these same girls received superior rating in the state finals at Bradley University, Peoria.

at home games and contests.

Many hours are spent in practice before the L-P Band performs during a football game. The large crowd of onlookers assure band members by their hearty applause, that their program was well received.

The Boys' Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Roy Johnson, specializes in quality not quantity: George Thompson, Eugene Strozewski, Harold Rimmele, James Wasilewski, Bernard Wren, Richard Kotz, Don Nowakowski, Gary Huettemann, Robert Washkowiak, and Charles Mitchell.

The pep-rally bonfire is the annual scene of activity following the parade. It furnishes a fitting background as Caryl Hildebrandt, Mary Ross, Jo Ann Angello, Sharon Richards, and Norma Jean Loekle lead the student body in cheers.

Floats, cheers, and speeches make pep rally a success

Miss Mary Steven's sophomore home room takes first place in the parade of floats. Their entry represents a whale swallowing a Freeport man. After the pep rally the whale is swallowed by the fire.

Mr. William Schultz's home room 310 keeps an unidentified Freeport man in his cage until he is ready to be released.

Mr. Donald Herrick's home room 211, takes third place. Mel Stevens, Jim Grimshaw, and Pearlene Falletti accompany the float to represent the home room.

After the excitement of the homecoming victory and the thrill of the dance, Queen Norma Jean Loekle gazes pensively at the crown, symbol of her new honor.

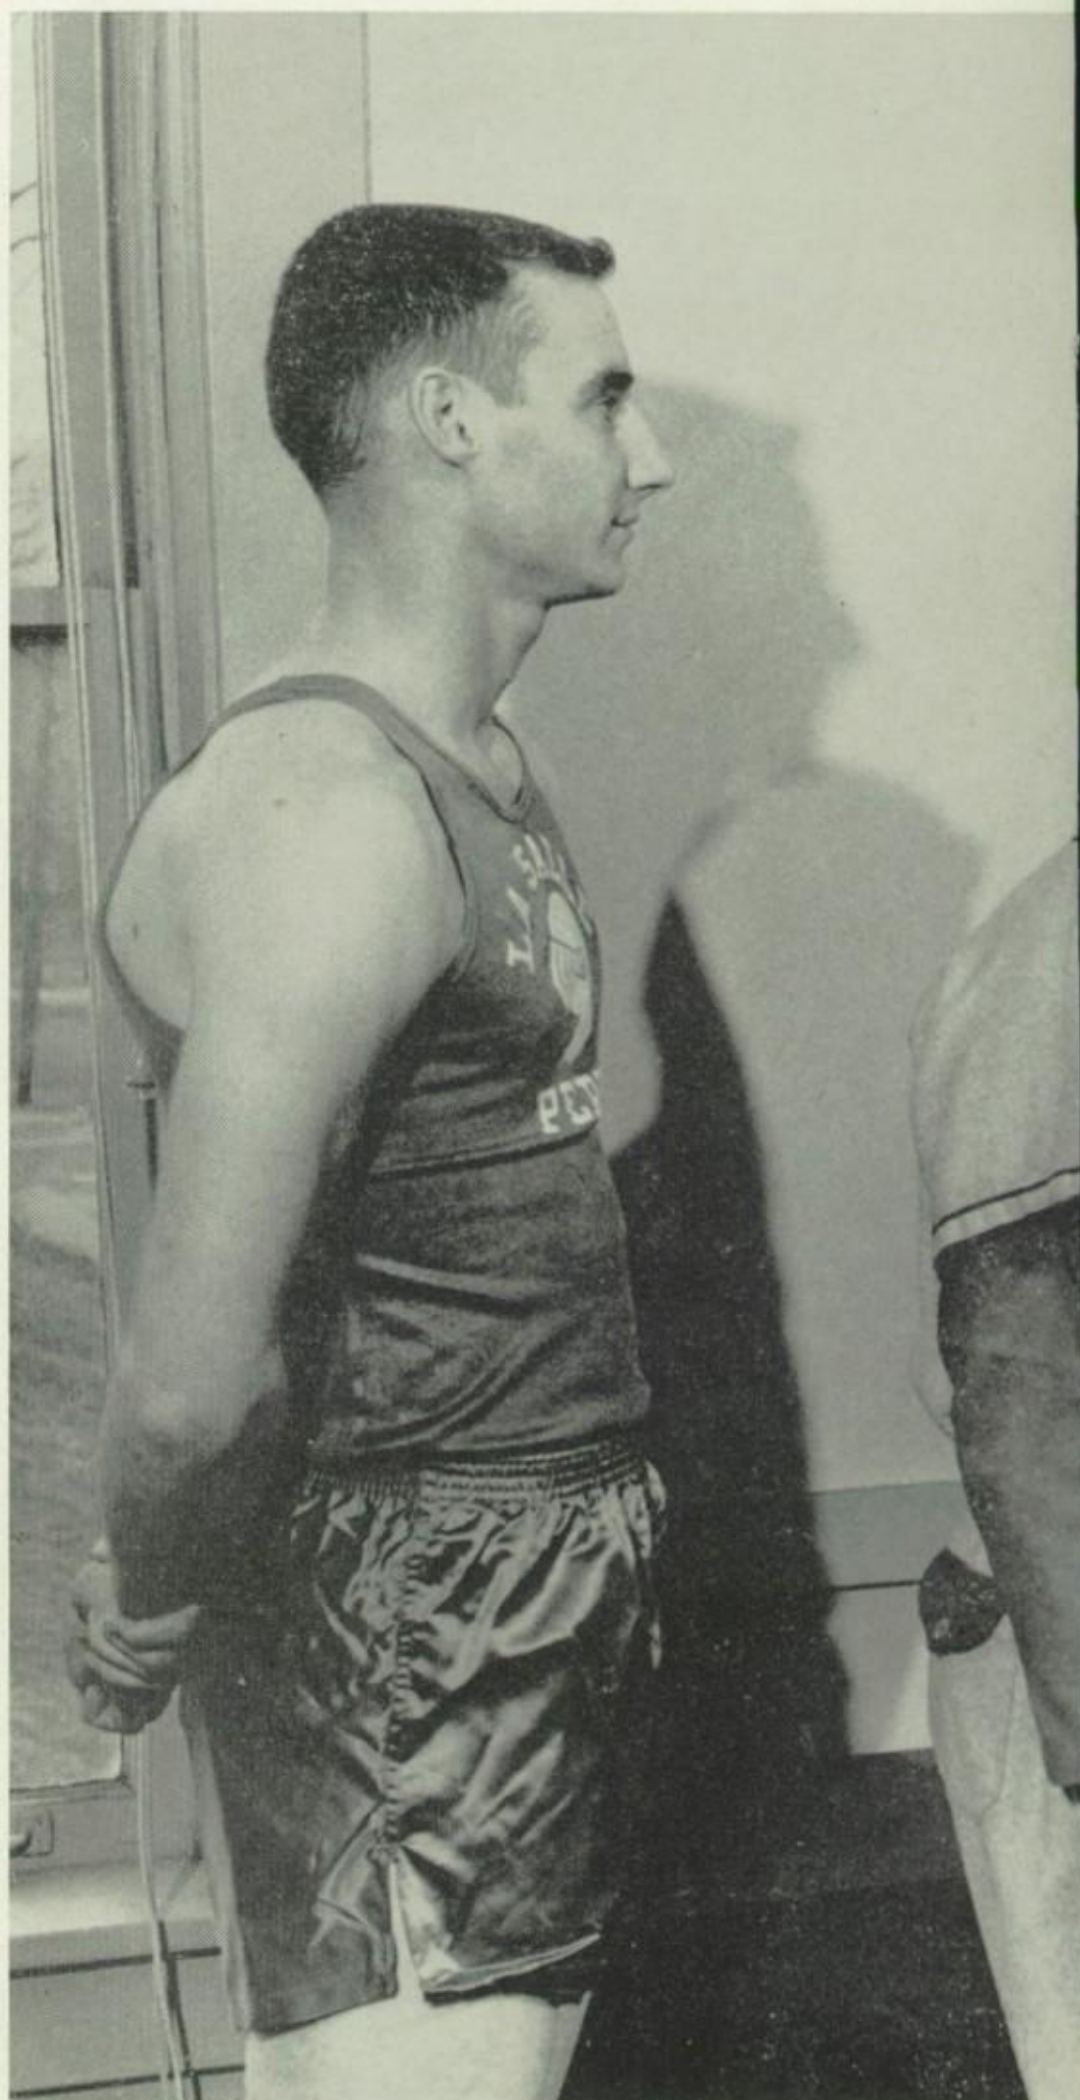

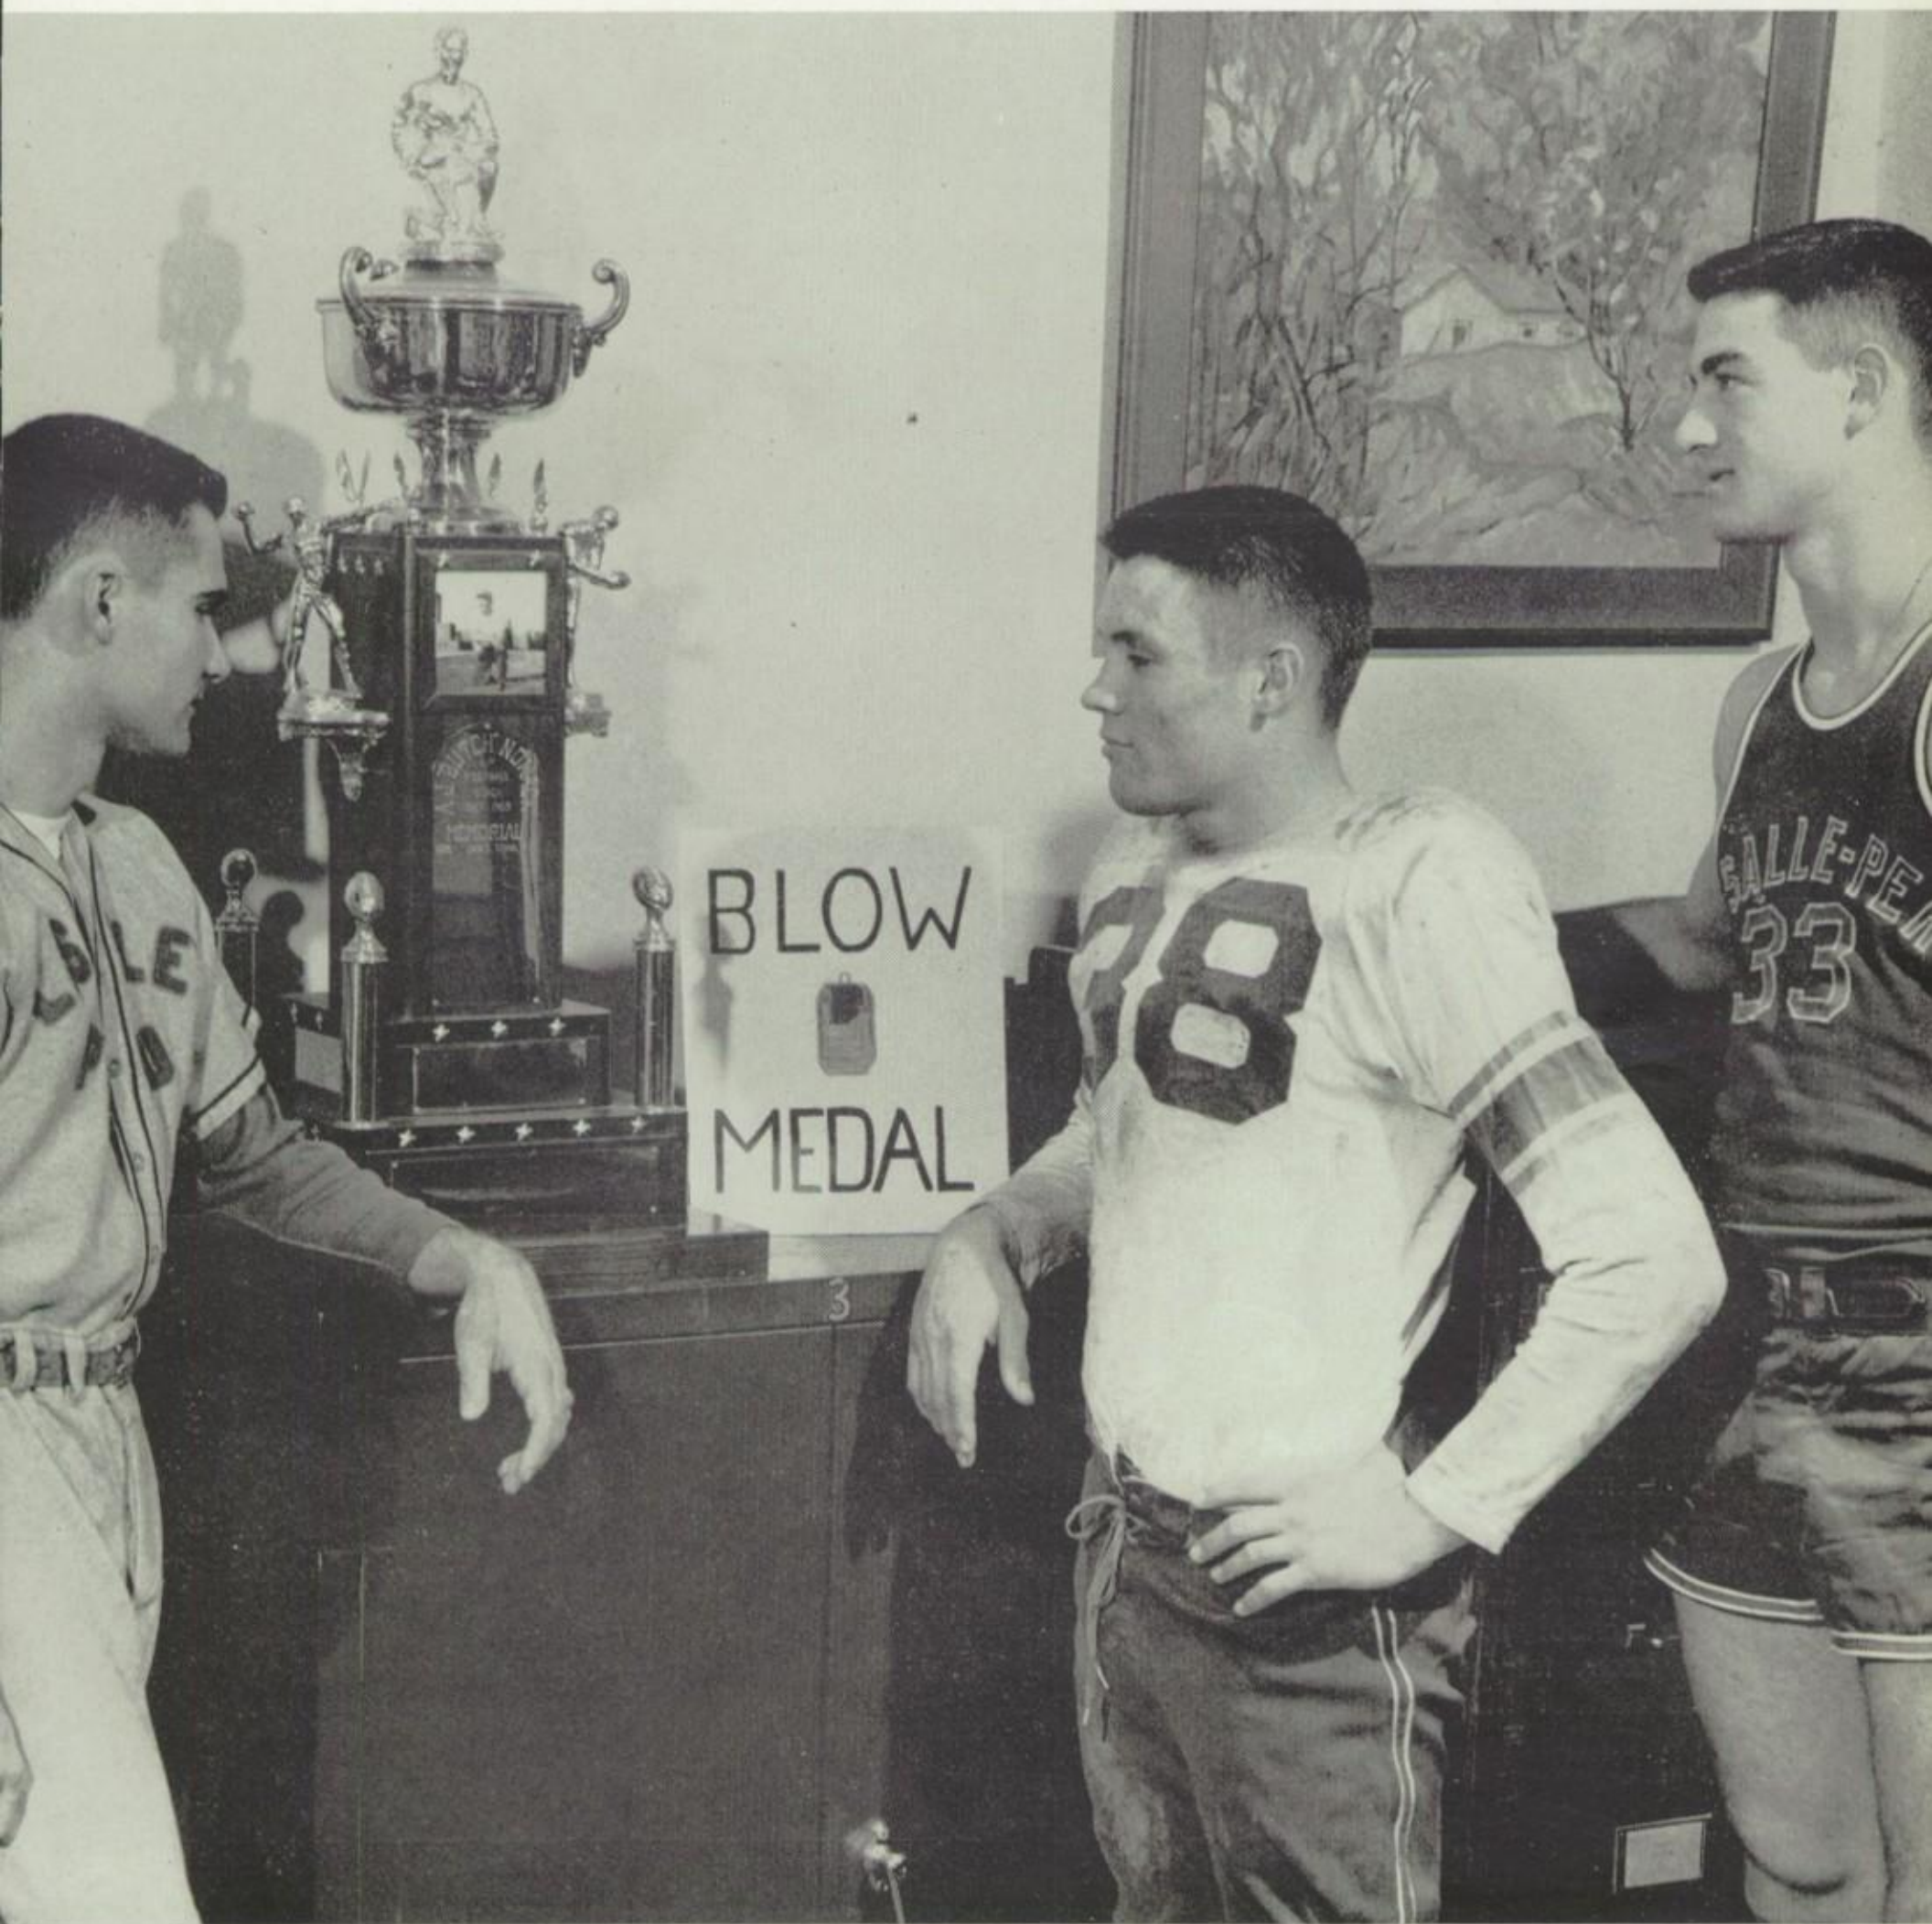

Sports

Through '56

Sports play an important role in the high school days of player and fan alike. Every touchdown, every basket, every point or goal is made through the combination of player skill, coaching technique, and student enthusiasm. L-P's teams and players may fall short of the final championship, but the fans do not. Look up to the athlete; he is an important part of your school, and look up, also, to the fan — the one who sticks with him . . . all the way.

Mr. Sam McCartney, ticket manager looks pleased; perhaps it's because of the record ticket sale this year. Over six hundred student and approximately twelve hundred adult season football tickets were sold. Early customers are: Juanita Hillman, Bill Hargrave and Janet Hammerich.

Season ticket sales break all previous records

Mary Louise Morandi, Denise Hartman, Joanne Gostomski, Nancy Hall, and Alberta Trost: girls who sold season tickets in the halls before school and during lunch hour, tally the sales at the end of the day.

One of the busiest persons in the school is Athletic Director Howard Fellows. Besides his teaching duties in the mathematics department, he is responsible for scheduling, arranging, and supervising all meets and games.

Here he adds to his picture collection of players and teams, the picture of the most recent football team produced under his directorship.

On April 25, friends in the Tri-Cities honored Coach Fellows at a dinner at Hotel Kaskaskia in recognition of his forty-three years of service at L-P, during which time he has been engaged in active coaching duty.

Men behind scenes contribute to success

Taking movies of athletic events has become an integral part of high-school sports. Mr. Earl Trobaugh operates the camera from the press box atop the grandstand, for all home games. Many thrilling plays are captured on film for future reference.

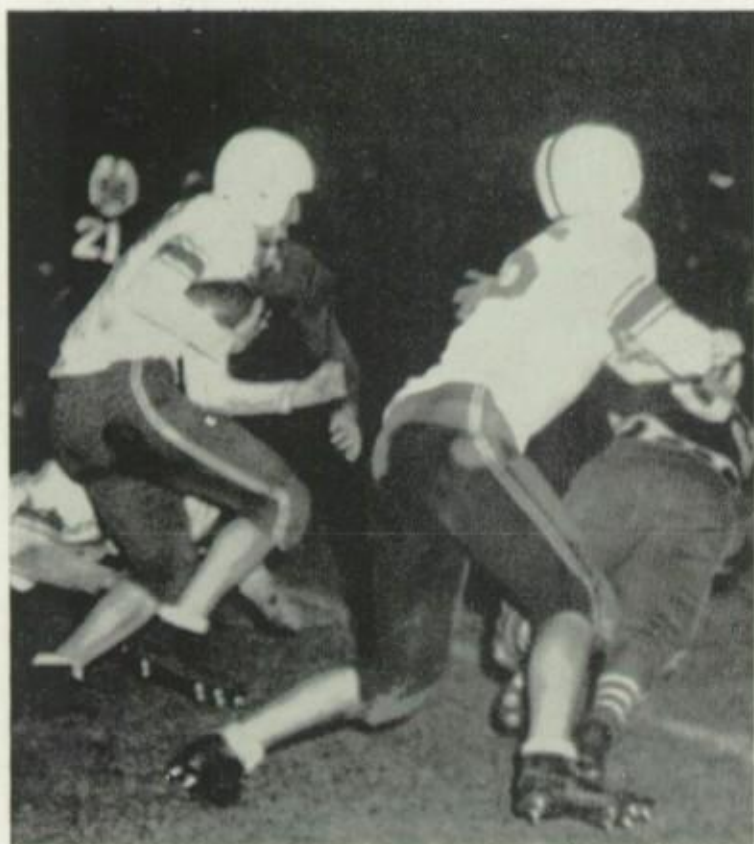

Coaches: (standing) Les Hoenscheid, Jim Valek, Herb Valett, Gene Vance; (sitting) Athletic Director Howard Fellows, Walter Tyler, Don Smith,

Bill Farnham, and John Strell discuss an athletic report and the Big Eight schedule.

Administration Through '56

Faculty members are an essential factor in the process of education. One would doubt whether any other group has ever been subject to such scrutiny, been a topic of as many locker door conversations, undergone such thorough accounting for every action, or withstood all this so well as L-P's faculty. Despite it all, through it all, perhaps . . . because of it all the hand of the administration guides, protects, and helps you — kindly and willingly. Look up to your teacher — he is devoting his life to you.

On the second Wednesday of each month, this group of competent men meet to discuss and direct the affairs of the high school and the junior college. Members of the Board of Education are elected by the voters of school district 120 for a term of three years, to oversee the welfare of students and faculty. Among their many duties are: hiring teachers, approving bills and salaries, and making financial reports. Under their direction, L-P is meeting high educational standards.

Best luck to retiring employee

Miss Kathleen Gaynor is retiring at the end of this school year. She has taught Home Economics in La Salle-Peru for the past forty-six years, and has prepared hundreds of girls for home making. She has always been kind, pleasant and considerate with the girls, and is known among the faculty for her intense and loyal interest in her home room students. We will miss her pleasant smile and her many kindnesses. Our best wishes accompany her in her new activities.

Teachers learn through B. I. E. Day

This year, business houses, industries of the community and educational institutions co-operated in a new venture—B. I. E. Day. Classes were suspended for the day and teachers toured commercial establishments in an effort to learn more about the community. Classes

Through '56

When four years at L-P have been completed and the memories totaled, your final sum will be different from that of anyone else in your class. There will be much which is similar—much to be shared from the confusion of your first day to the nostalgia of your last stroll through the now familiar corridors diploma in hand. As you leave those corridors, pausing on the threshold of a new life, look up to all which has opened before you, knowing that all of L-P and the year 1956 is behind you.

freshmen aren't so dumb, after all!

Marlene Marsh, Nancy Mazzorana, Sandra Wallner, and Sharlene Buckley dash from freshman swimming to their next period classes. Wet hair, a common sight among freshmen girls at L-P, doesn't seem to bother these girls.

Looking Back Through '56

The grade ascended, the year completed look back to 1956. Freshman, sophomore, junior, senior—this has been your year, your class, and your school. This has been you in all the progression of a year's time at L-P. Look back, Youth, and sum up, and then turn again to your ascent—turn to look up, always, as you have through '56.

BILL FITCH, senior class president
MARY ROSS, junior class president
BUDDY DiCRISPINO, sophomore class president
PAT UTZ, freshman class president

Jim,
Naughty boy! but luck
anyway. Hurry & grow up
so we can go out.

Love,
Sheila

Races are Red Dirt is Black
and so are you Tide of time has the future upon you
Carroll -

Best of luck "Jimmy"
our a real great
kid. Lots of luck
with the woman
Fete Magnoni

Jim,
To a very good
kid. All kids from Ogleby are good.
Luck Gladly

Jimmy:
Always remember
the good times on the bus - and thanks for saving me a sit.
Good luck always
your sand mother

Jim
To a swell kid
in H Room and
S.H.
Jane Kearns

Jimmy,
To a real nice kid.
Lots of luck in the future.
Remember all the fun we had in band.
Carole '59'

Jimmy -
Keep up the good work in band
& maybe someday you'll be a second Raphael Mendez.
Good luck to you always -
I'll never forget the good times
we've had.
Craith Lamps

Jim,
Best of luck to a cute kid. Have fun with the girls,
but make sure it's good fun.
Luck
